The $10,000 goal to illuminate 400 lights on the traditional Salvation Army "Tree of Lights" is within one bulb, or $23, of being achieved, Captain Ronald J. Kerley, Salvation Army commanding officer and Robert Thomas, 1971 campaign chairman, announced today. A total of $9,977 has been contributed.

In the same announcement, however, Capt. Kerley said, "We hope to raise at least $1,000 more than the established goal to offset a $3,200 deficit we have been carrying from the 1970 "Tree of Lights" project."

Last year's fund-raising drive failed to reach the $10,000 quota.

"The record-breaking number of applicants seeking gift baskets and other aid this year will require every penny collected to date to be used to defray current expenses," the officer pointed out. More than 800 local families submitted applications for Christmas assistance.

Vandals Take Lights

If the symbolic tree, located in Memorial Park, opposite St. Elizabeth Hospital, does not appear as brightly lighted as 350 bulbs would indicate, the reason is vandalism.

Capt. Kerley said today that vandals have stripped the tree of all lights on the lower section, "as far up as they can reach."

The Salvation Army commander also warned Quad-Cities to be wary of individuals posing as legitimate solicitors for the Salvation Army.

He noted that unauthorized solicitors have been active in a Granite City subdivision, around the Garasche Homes in Madison and in the Collinsville area.

Reports of persons unknown to the Salvation Army and not in uniform seeking funds door-to-door were received this week from area residents and the Collinsville police, Capt. Kerley said.

Groups wishing to Christmas carol in behalf of the Salvation Army are urged to obtain a permit from the city.

Green Light on Treatment Plans

Granite City Council members—ignoring a proposal offered by Mayor Donald Partney—gave an official go ahead Monday night to preparation of detailed construction plans for a new secondary sewage plant and a system of interceptors.

The action clears the way for the M. W. Inc., of St. Louis, the city's special sewer project engineers, to proceed with finalization of working plans for the secondary sewage treatment program that is expected to cost an estimated $15.3 million.

The engineering firm was instructed by the council nearly two months ago to hold up on the detailed planning phase because the city lacked funds to finance the work. The M. W. firm told council members the remaining engineering work on the secondary sewage treatment plant and interceptors will run about $400,000.

The delay in the engineering work was ordered after the M. W. engineers completed the first phase preliminary report at a cost of $102,000. The city has paid that engineering bill.

Wanted Action

Mayor Partney urged the work be held up until he could see the overall project.

Increase Venice School Borrowing

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

The Venice Board of Education authorized issuance of $500,000 in tax anticipation warrants, the highest amount ever sought by the school district in any single year, at its regular meeting Monday evening.

Twenty-five warrants, valued at $200,000 each, will be sold by the Venice School District at not more than 8½ percent, in anticipation of 1971 tax collections to offset projected 1971-72 district expenditures.

In seeking the board's approval to issue the warrants, Fred Durier Jr., presiding officer, commented, "The $500,000 is necessary to enable the district to finish out the school year."

Durier also said, "The warrants will be used as we go along."

He noted that the half-million figure was set "as there is no definite means of knowing just how much we will need to complete the year at this point."

City to Remedy Vesci Flooding

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

A plan to relieve the Lynch-Vesci Avenue area of flash flooding in rainy periods was authorized by the Granite City Council Monday night.

A special fund of $20,000 was created on a motion by Alderman Thomas Boker of the Seventh Ward, in which the flood-plagued area is located, and Boker said he and Street Superintendent Lionel Portell will recommend an engineer to handle the program in next week's council session.

The action came as a delegation of residents from the area of Lynch, Vesci and Stearns Avenues sat in the audience to learn what results their complaints would bring.

At least two persons attending the meeting had obtained permission to address the council on the flooding problem.

Dawes and Boker told the council they met during the weekend with representatives of area residents and worked out a plan which is expected to drain the area of rainfall runoff. The plan calls for installation of a 10-inch drain through which stormwater drainage will be moved by an eight-inch submersible pump.

The drainage will flow into a line at Stearns Avenue and from there into a 24-inch line that will carry the flow to the Nameoki Drainage channel, Boker said.

The alderman said he had checked with engineers and learned that the eight-inch pump and 10-inch line should move about 100,000 gallons per hour.

Trustee Indicted, Six Others Charged, Grand Jury Report Criticized

(Text of report on Page 3)
(Editorial on Page 12)

In a milder than expected review of Pontoon Beach-Nameoki Township activity, the Madison County Grand Jury on Tuesday afternoon returned one indictment.

The jury noted charges against six other persons and recommended that the Pontoon Beach Board pay closer heed to legal requirements in its arrests, enforcement, purchasing and contracting procedures.

The indictment alleges that Fred Reiser, a village trustee since April 1969 and owner of Certified Welding Service, had a conflict of interest. It says he acted on and was interested in contracts to perform work for the village.

It is contended that such votes occurred at meetings Jan. 28 ($15 of cost), Feb. 23 ($30), May 28 ($430), June 24 ($294) and July 22 ($23), a total of $792.

Reiser has said that such work was on an emergency basis and was done when the village could find no one else to do it, in some cases it involved repairs to prevent flooding of streets.

Reiser and Leslie "Sonny" Ca-ton, operator of the "Fort," a village tavern, and of Caton Enterprises, were listed as having failed to register under the assumed Name Business Act; when a business is conducted under a name other than that of the operator, a certificate of ownership must be filed with the county clerk.

Wood River Township Supervisor Roger Elble, Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whittell and Joe Melosi, a reporter for the Alton Evening Telegraph, were alleged to have shown contempt of court in improperly communicating with the Grand Jury.

They were three of about a dozen persons reported to have been at a meeting Nov. 9 in Elble's home. The jury alleges "a secret meeting with the foreman of the Grand Jury and not in the presence of the whole Grand Jury."

Whittell, Mathew Ropac of the Truth and Action Party and Mrs. Pat Luchini, a Nameoki Township general assistance caseworker, were charged with involvement in sale of lottery tickets. A "bushel of booze" was raffled off Dec. 13 to raise funds for the political party.

The jury in its report to Circuit Judge John Gitchoff was critical of the state's attorney and courthouse group who go to silence those who are promoting reform.

Meanwhile, nine other persons who said they also were at the meeting with the grand jury foreman converged upon the State's Attorney's office this morning, demanding that they, too, be charged with contempt of court.

They say that Whittell, Elble and Melosi were not the central figures in the meeting but were invited to it.

Federal Financing Endangered

Overriding objections by Mayor Donald Partney that their action would cost the city $250,000 in federal Topics funds, Granite City council members voted 9 to 3 Monday night to award a contract for paving Melrose and Oakland avenues as a motor fuel tax project.

Mayor Partney insisted that if the project is carried out, it will deplete the city's motor fuel tax fund to such an extent that the city will be unable to provide its 50½ matching share under a Topics Safety program for improvement of 13 city street intersections. The mayor said the city should receive about $250,000 in federal funds under the program now being considered.

The Topics program—a joint city-state-federal plan—provides federal funding primarily for signal lights, widening and improving intersections, installation of left turn lanes and similar safety engineering. The financing is on a 50-50 basis, however, and the city must match funds provided by the state and federal governments.

The mayor's warning came after Alderman R. E. Robertson presented a motion to award a contract to the G. H. Sternberg Co. in the amount of $115,678 to improve Melrose Avenue from Pontoon Road to the north city limits, and Oakland Avenue from Rode Avenue to Braught Avenue.

Lowest of 3 Bids

Sternberg's offer was the lowest of three received by the Street and Alley Committee. Other bidders were the Birmingham Fuel & Oil Co. of Collinsville, bidding $152,798, and A. H. Seebold & Co., of $116,931.

"Our motor fuel tax fund is far too depleted to do this job," the mayor said. "If you go through with this, we will not have enough money to meet our matching share of the Topics program. Do you think it is wise to go ahead with something like this and cause the loss of $250,000 in federal funds?"

Mayor Partney explained that highway officials have informed him that cities no longer may "operate on credit" against potential motor fuel tax income as they did in past years. The city must have the money in its motor fuel tax fund to provide its matching share when the Topics program is completed.

Robertson, however, insisted that "the state told us we had enough money to do this job."

The mayor agreed, but pointed out that the expenditure out of the Topics program was (Continued on Page 15, Col. 2.)

Three Boys Set Fire To Prather Classroom

A fire set by three boys caused $1,200 damage to the vocal music room at Prather Junior High School Monday night.

Firemen said it started in a piano, apparently after 7 p.m. and remained unnoticed by the custodian until about 8:30 p.m. The piano was destroyed. The loss was estimated at $600 to the building, caused by smoke and $600 to the contents of the piano.

The boys, 15, students at the school, were arrested Tuesday morning and turned over to juvenile officers. They were held in the city jail.

The custodian reported that he had heard a door close at about 7:10 p.m. but nothing appeared to be disturbed until he smelled smoke. The door had been left ajar as the boys had planned to re-enter the building, authorities said.

$488,984 Settlement in Fire at GC High School

By MARION BARTOSIAK
Press-Record Staff Writer

A final lump sum settlement of $488,984 for fire losses at Granite City High School was accepted by the Granite City Board of Education Monday night.

The offer was made by the Underwriters Adjusting Co., which represents the district's insurance carrier and was negotiated by Gabriel & Dulgeroff, architects; R. W. McDermott, structural engineer; and William Schooley, school attorney.

A previous payment was made to bring the total insurance adjustment to about $600,000, it was reported at the meeting.

Tully A. Heubner, director of buildings and grounds, told the board that remaining to be completed from the fire damage is replacement of the auditorium and related areas, repair of corridors in front of the auditorium, the boiler room roof and ceiling, the roofs over the boys and girls locker rooms and replacement of gables on the front of the building.

Previous claims received from the insurance company on the fire totaled $171,186, Heubner said.

School Redistricting

The board received a report on redistricting of four area school boundaries to feed the new Schaefer tract elementary schools to take effect Aug. 1, 1972.

The feeder schools are Mitchell, Nameoki, Maryville and Logan, while Lake, Stallings and (Continued on Page 6, Col. 8.)

Mall Phase I Plan Completed

Phase I planning for installation of the proposed downtown Granite City Mall has been completed and fixes estimated cost of the overall project at $250,000, members of the city council were informed in regular meeting Monday night.

The project will now move into Phase II—detailed construction planning—which is scheduled for authorization by the city council in its meeting Monday night.

Council members considered a motion approving continued work on the project during Monday's session, but Mayor Donald Partney recommended a one-week delay to permit Leo Konzen, Granite City attorney, to be present. Konzen is handling legal work for the Mall project.

The preliminary plan, prepared by Harland Bartholomew and Associates, St. Louis planning and engineering firm, was submitted to the council Monday night along with a large map designating traffic alignments, landscaping and beautification installations along 19th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue, primary streets within the mall.

Fix Cost Estimates

An accompanying report estimated construction costs in seven different categories, listing a projected construction cost of $174,196. Added to this, the report said, is a 15% contingency on construction cost of $22,833, engineering and design cost of $30,000 and another $20,000 for utility relocation.

Mayor Partney told the council that it will need to authorize expenditure of $4,000 to finance the Phase II planning under a plan whereby the city will finance preliminary work up to the beginning of construction for a total of about $30,000.

The Mall construction work will be financed through sale of special assessment bonds which will be paid by the merchants whose property lies within or adjoins the Mall. The mayor said a public hearing on the project will be called soon by the Board of Local Improvements to initiate the financing phase of the program.

Mayor Partney pointed out that money advanced by the city to finance the preliminary phases of planning and engineering will be repaid to the city from the proceeds of the assessment bonds.

Some Changes Made

SPRINGFIELD — A hard-fought, probably bitter campaign, a close election, and a split decision.

That's how the Statehouse sizes up 1972.

Of course, a lot can happen in 11 months. But, as of now, the political radar from the Capitol Dome forecasts these winners in Illinois:

Republicans: President Richard M. Nixon, U. S. Sen. Charles H. Percy and Attorney General William J. Scott.

Democrats: Lt. Gov. Paul Simon for governor, Auditor Michael J. Howlett for secretary of state and Dean D. Barringer for comptroller.

Chiefly because of the new reapportionment, which favors the Republicans, the early-bird outlook is for the GOP to take 13 or 14 of the 24 Congressional seats in Illinois, ending the present 12-12 deadlock.

Republicans also appear likely to regain their traditional control of the State Senate by a fairly comfortable margin of eight seats or so. The House, however, looks like a toss-up—with Democrats, perhaps, winding up with an edge of from three to five seats.

As noted, there is a long way to go. And in a close election, there are many unforeseen developments which can alter the course of events.

Probably the one prediction on which both Statehouse Republicans and Democrats would most likely agree is that voters will split their ballots—and that neither party can expect either a sweep or a shutout.

In general, the Statehouse sees 1972 leaning toward a "Democratic year."

Accounting for this is a feeling that voters are restless, far from satisfied and thus inclined to vote against the "ins." Within Illinois there is the undeniable factor of voter resentment against Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie for the state's first income tax.

Favoring President Nixon is a pat in the hospital's pediatric division. Corky and Santa make their Christmas visits through the Lewis-Clark Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association of Madison, Jersey and Calhoun Counties. Christian, two years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Dickerson of Wood River.

With respect to strictly Illinois candidates, the same name-recognition factor holds true. Democratic senatorial candidate Roman C. Pucinski faces an especially difficult task Downstate in making himself familiar to the electorate.

Simon, of course, faces no such problem in the gubernatorial race and Howlett is known to almost everyone, Republican as well as Democrat.

Republican secretary of state Edmund J. Kucharski, has the benefit of a previous statewide campaign for state treasurer in which he was, perhaps, unfairly well Downstate for a Chicagoan—but probably faces tougher competition this time in the popular Howlett.

Bill Scott has a tremendous edge in the name-recognition area with his Democratic opponent State Sen. Thomas Lyons of Chicago, a comparative unknown.

The two candidates for the new office of comptroller, Republican State Sen. George W. Lindberg of Crystal Lake and Democrat Dean D. Barringer of Anna, also are virtually unknown and their fate is probably tied to that of the respective governor candidates.

The lieutenant governor nominees, of course, will run jointly with the gubernatorial candidates. What could change the present outlook?

Council Discusses Grading Issue, Hires New Fireman

Climaxing a three-week controversy over methods of selecting candidates for jobs on the city police and fire departments, the city council Monday night voted to employ Donald Hayes, 31, of 3233 Aubrey Ave., as a pumper on the Granite City fire department. Hayes is to report for duty Jan. 1.

Approval of the appointment under a recommendation of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners which was sent to the council nearly a month ago followed appearance at Monday night's meeting of Ralph Elliott, chairman of the fire and police board, and board members Warren Decatur and Miss Betty Sheppard, to answer questions of aldermen regarding board procedure in rating applicants for police and fire department jobs.

Alderman Emerald Dawes who held up Hayes' appointment two weeks ago with a request that board members appear before the council to explain the method of rating job applicants told Elliott that he believed additional merit points for military service should be included on examination grades and ratings before they are sent to the council.

Dawes said also that he represented the fire and police board's publication of a letter in the newspaper explaining its grading procedure before first giving the answer to council members.

Set by Law
Elliott replied that the methods followed by the board in rating job applicants are established by state law and "are not arbitrary actions of the board." Elliott explained that when examinations are given, applicants are listed by number and not by name and that only the applicant knows his own grade.

Dawes had protested the recommendation for Hayes' appointment on grounds that Hayes was lower on the list of eligible candidates than another candidate who complained to the council.

Elliott explained that grades are changed because candidates with military service are awarded five extra points. At one time during the meeting, Elliott Dawes and Alderman Paul Schuler went over the grading list, but Elliott explained he could not discuss the list publicly because the names on the list cannot be disclosed.

Dawes said he was not questioning the appointment because he realized the appointee was well qualified, but that he did object to the procedure of the council receiving grade listings before extra points are added for military service.

Following the discussion Alderman Clyde Boyd moved for approval of the fire and police board recommendation to employ Hayes. The motion was approved by unanimous vote.

work out a financing program. Council members became impatient, however, and during recent meetings have insisted that the city "get moving" on the detailed planning. Under a mandate of state and federal Environmental agencies, the city is required to complete the secondary program by Dec. 31, 1973.

Last week Partney sent to the aldermen an outline of a program in which he said the Chicago bonding firm of Smith, Barney & Co. would handle financing for Granite City as well as the four townships of the Quad-City area which plan to install sewers in Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships and buy its treatment operation from the Granite City facilities.

Wrote to Aldermen

The M. W. engineering firm, meanwhile, wrote each alderman proposing a number of alternative plans for financing the final phase of engineering work.

The council, acting on a motion by Alderman Claude Green, chose to go along with one of the M. W. proposals that would for use of funds of the Nameoki sewer bond account which are invested in certificates of deposit. M. W. guarantees the city it will make up the loss of any interest on the deposits until the principal amount is replaced.

M. W. said the city has indicated funds from the sale of revenue bonds for the treatment program can be obtained within three to four months. From the bond proceeds, the money would be replaced in the Nameoki bond account and the engineering firm would make up any loss of interest incurred while the Nameoki fund was used to pay engineering fees to M. W., according to the plan.

Council members approved the proposal unanimously. The council also approved without a dissenting vote the appointment of Horace Calvo, Granite City attorney and state representative of the 50th Legislative District, as bond attorney for the secondary treatment project.

Zoning, Building Codes Initiated at Madison

Three ordinances designed to bring the City of Madison closer to requirements of the federal government for participation in federal building assistance programs were placed on first reading by the City Council Tuesday night.

The ordinances are for the adoption of a new zoning plan, building code and a plumbing code. The city proposes the adoption of the Building Officials Conference of America, Inc., Basic Building Code (BOCA Code), which is utilized by Granite City and most other cities. The new code is to replace the 1947 code which the city has been using.

The proposed plumbing code will require all future plumbing to be installed in compliance with the state plumbing code of Illinois Department of Public Health, and calls for the appointment of a city plumbing inspector to enforce the code.

To Name Commission
The proposed zoning ordinance calls for the creation of a seven-member zoning commission to prepare a zoning ordinance for the city. The commission, appointed by the mayor with the approval of the council, will designate the zoning of areas for commercial, industrial, residential and other land uses.

Text of Report on Pontoon Beach By Madison County Grand Jury

Text of a report issued Tuesday by the Madison County Grand Jury follows:

The fact that an investigation by the Grand Jury concerning Pontoon Beach has received widespread publicity throughout the county through every news media and speculation has arisen concerning this, it is deemed fit and proper that a report be made of the Grand Jury findings of its investigation for the benefit of the people of this county and also of Pontoon Beach.

It is a recognized fact that politics in Pontoon Beach have played an extreme part in many of the rumors that have been spread.

We have heard mostly rumors, unsubstantiated by fact. It has been discovered that when people state that other people will testify as to definite knowledge of an illegal activity, we have found that they cannot.

They also have only heard the rumors. Over 30 people have subpoenaed in this investigation.

The Grand Jury finds that a preliminary investigation had begun by the State's Attorney several weeks prior thereto.

The State's Attorney should not have allowed the Grand Jury to proceed on such a large-scale investigation on unsubstantiated rumors and that the Grand Jury should have charges that have arisen because of this — these matters could have been handled otherwise.

The publicity concerning this is regrettable.

The matters concerning Pontoon Beach arose primarily from people speaking to their supervisor and to a newspaper reporter, which reporter conferred with another supervisor to arrange a secret meeting with the foreman of the Grand Jury, and not in the presence of the whole Grand Jury.

About a dozen people attended that meeting along with the newspaper reporter. This procedure was contrary to law and illegal.

The proper channel for presenting information to the Grand Jury is the State's Attorney; and if he fails to act, then matters should be presented to the Grand Jury.

And seeking unofficial volunteers to be the foreman of the Grand Jury through whatever means and inviting them to start on their own authority, a prosecution is a contempt of court and a misdemeanor at common law.

The courts have previously held that "private prosecutors" are not allowed to intrude themselves to the grand jury since generally such parties are actuated by private enmity and seek merely the gratification of their personal malice.

For whatever reasons in this matter, having a member of the grand jury meet separately apart from the rest of the panel in this case cannot be tolerated.

We recommend that the State's Attorney file the necessary papers for contempt of court against the three primary people involved (although everyone in attendance at that meeting is involved), and we note that this has been done this day.

The handling, processing, execution and suing under present contracts that Pontoon Beach has that are still unresolved, not a criminal matter but civil.

Any bad or poor business practices in the operation of a city, village or government entity or poor fiscal management or policies do not make the matters criminal and subject to the Grand Jury investigation. Adequate civil remedies are elsewhere available.

It is strongly recommended that the State's Attorney remedy the situation when he sues his lawyer at every village meeting and confer with him extensively about usual and proper procedures and legal matters in the running of government.

The State's Attorney should not allow the situation when reporters are allowed access to witnesses immediately outside the Grand Jury room waiting to be called and interviewed about their proposed testimony and that he also call this to the attention of the Circuit Judge.

The prosecuting attorney for cities and villages and the State's Attorney have a joint right to prosecute traffic violations on roadways and highways by running through and in the district and jurisdiction of the cities or villages.

Their own city attorney may prosecute any violations. With the right of prosecution, there is also a right not to prosecute.

The voiding or non-prosecution of tickets issued is not a crime if unattended and no bribery is involved.

If done to a great extent, it leads to an unhealthy situation and lowers the morale of the police force.

It is our suggestion that Pontoon Beach use an attorney to control the manner or procedure of the issuance of tickets and through prosecution.

If they fail to do so, the State's Attorney should make strong recommendations to the police and to the city officials on the due and proper procedure to be followed.

The Grand Jury finds as follows:

1. We find no adequate evidence of extortion by law enforcement officials nor large-scale or organized gambling, prostitution or drug traffic in Pontoon Beach.

2. We find that there has been at times a more strict enforcement of tavern hours than

Granite City PRESS-RECORD

at other times when laxness prevailed. We hereby call this to the attention of the city officials.

3. We find that the dumping of hot oil and chips remaining from a hopper on private property at the end of the contract and done by the director of streets is not commendable, but the usual practice in Southern Illinois, as returning a small portion of hot oil to the seller for a refund is not practical.

The amount of money involved this last year in such an operation in Pontoon Beach, we estimate amounts to $220.00 approximately, while the whole contract amounted to approximately $10,000.00.

4. It is regrettable that the news publicity during these last weeks has made it appear that Pontoon Beach is extremely corrupt. In one newspaper referred to, "Sin City"—it is not.

5. We do not find evidence concerning a federal offense but understand federal officials have been contacted. The State's Attorney has offered to assist them in one investigation involved.

6. Three people are to be charged for gambling for selling lottery tickets, and we find this done this day. It is regrettable that this was done in part by municipal buildings and for politics.

This involved some of the people who previously testified in this matter and complained about that village, and has occurred since their testimony.

7. We recommend complaints be filed against two people for failing to register under the Assumed Name Business Act.

8. We recommend a trustee interested directly or indirectly in contracts for the performance of work for the village in which has been called upon to vote, and we find that there is a conflict of interest and are returning an indictment on the same.

Dated this 21st day of December 1971.

Frizzell-Gildersleeve Nuptials In Normal, Ill.

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that taking place Dec. 18 in Normal, Ill., of Miss Ruth Ann Frizzell, a daughter of Mrs. Marie Frizzell, 317 Margaret Place, Normal, formerly of Granite City, and the late Vince Frizzell, and James Turner Gildersleeve, son of Ben T. Gildersleeve of Hudson.

The Rev. J. C. Cronenberg officiated at the ceremony performed at St. Luke's United Church of Christ. Vocalists were Bruce Lorie and Jamie McCarty.

Given in marriage by her brother, Dan Frizzell, the bride chose a gown of ivory sateen and lace with a high neckline and long sheer sleeves accented with French lace cuffs. Lace trimmed the Empire bodice and was repeated on the long-line gown in delicate appliques and bordered the hemline.

The sheer illusion mantilla veil, edged in lace, flowed into a cathedral sweep train and she carried a bouquet of ivory cymbidium and phalaenopsis orchids with stephanotis, holly greens and wide green streamers. Miss Rose Frizzell was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Mary Lanham, another sister of the bride, Mrs. Leslie Frizzell and Miss Joy Gildersleeve, a sister of the groom.

Children Get New Clothes, Enjoy Party

"It was quite an experience," one Jaycee murmured as the last of 27 youngsters were fitted with a new outfit and the group prepared to leave the W. T. Grant Department Store on the meek Village Shopping Center.

The children, all grade school pupils, were taking part in the annual shopping excursion sponsored by the Granite City Jaycees for under-privileged youngsters.

The project, directed this year by Jaycee Dennis Joyce, has been a special benefit activity of the young men's service club for the past several Christmas seasons.

Accompanying 27 active children on a shopping trip into a busy department store before Christmas time is not an easy task, Jaycee members have learned from experience.

To assist them, the Jaycees enlisted the aid of several Jaycees, the auxiliary arm of the men's group, and another attractive addition in the person of Miss Janice Albers—Miss Granite City of 1971.

The Jaycees provided $600 to purchase items needed by the children who were referred to the club by school personnel. Immediately after the shopping trip, the youngsters were transported to the Jaycee Clubhouse, at 1855 Poplar St., where a luncheon was served by the Jaycees.

Food for the party, consisting of hamburgers, French fries and soda, were donated by McDonald Hamburgers Drive-In. Decorative Christmas cookies, prepared by the Jaycees, added a Yuletide touch to the midday meal.

Expenses of the overall shopping trip were financed by several projects sponsored by the Jaycees during the past year. A portion of the money was produced through the "Jaycee Rodeo" and similar public activities.

Assisting the project chairman and Miss Granite City on the tour and at the clubhouse party were Jaycee President Bill Talley, and Jaycees David Partney, Steve Ortiz, Jim Wilson, Les Larry Patton, Scott Warnhoff, Bob Frey, Owen Ross and Jerry Gann.

Jaycees helping were Mrs. Pat Alenman, Mrs. Marilyn Worthen, Mrs. Delores Talley, Mrs. Linda Weible and rs. Sheri Gann.

SHOPPING CAN BE FUN when little girls have Miss Granite City—Janice Albers—along to assist. The inquisitive youngsters were among 27 grade school children receiving gifts of new clothing at W. T. Grant Department Store in Nameoki Village Shopping Center during the annual shopping trip sponsored by the Granite City Jaycees.

Undefeated Teams Favored In Pontiac Cage Tourney

Two undefeated teams — LaSalle-Peru's Cavaliers and the Porters of Lockport Central — sporting 7-0 records have moved into the favorite's role in the 44th Pontiac Holiday Basketball Tournament slated for Dec. 28, 29 and 30.

High scoring LaSalle-Peru, which has scored more than 80 points in five of its seven games, is paced by range 69 senior center, Paul Meilen (22-point average) and a pair of classy guards, Pete Kasperki (18 average) and Gary Hopps (14 average). The Cavaliers received the No. 1 seeding in the pairings.

Lockport Central, with another veteran squad, has been over 80 points in four of its seven games. The Porters feature outstanding scoring balance with four players in double figures.

Isiah Harper paced the Lockport scoring with 18.3 average, while promising 65 senior center, Paul Meilen (22-point average) and a pair of classy guards, Pete Kasperki (18 average) and Gary Hopps (14 average). The Cavaliers received the No. 1 seeding in the pairings.

last year. The Warriors are paced by high scoring 65 forward Terry Ripka, who is averaging 32 points per game after a 47-point explosion against Wood River Saturday night. The Cavaliers received the No. 1 seeding in the pairings.

Aurora West, with a 10-1 record, received the No. 4 seeding position. They feature rugged defensive play and only a 68-64 loss to highly regarded Aurora Central in the tournament.

At least three other teams in the class are regarded as capable of going all the way. In this group would be No. 5 seeded Rock Island All-American, No. 6 seeded Waukegan, featuring 6-1 center Bill Ricks and 6-4 forward Tom Demitry, and No. 7 seeded Bloom of Chicago Heights, with outstanding 6-4 forward Mark Barwig.

A pair of dark horses — last year's runner-up, U. High of Normal 7-3) and junior-student Glenwood West (7-0) — were seeded No. 8 and matched in a first round game.

The only newcomer to one of the best balanced fields in the history of the tournament is Quincy Catholic Boys. The Crusaders have compiled a 5-3 record against teams from Iowa, Missouri and Illinois.

Other members of the field include vasily improved Stretor, Springfield High, Cairo, Deerfield, Sterling and Highland Park. Defending champion Granite City, Aurora West, Waukegan and Bloom will battle it out for a championship berth in the upper bracket.

No. 1 seeded LaSalle-Peru is favored in the lower bracket but is expected to receive top competition for a finalist berth from No. 2 seeded Rockport Central and No. 5 seeded All-American.

First round pairings for Tuesday are: 9 a.m. — Quincy Catholic Boys vs. Aurora West; 10:30 a.m. — Waukegan vs. Springfield High; 1:00 p.m. — Rock Island All-American vs. Cairo; 2:30 p.m. — Bloom vs. Stretor; 4:00 p.m. — Normal U. High vs. Glenwood West; 7:00 p.m. — LaSalle-Peru vs. Deerfield; 8:30 p.m. — Lockport Central vs. Sterling; 10:00 p.m. — Rock Island All-American vs. Pontiac.

Holiday Mat Tourney Opens Here Wednesday 27-18

First-round pairings were announced for the 16-team Granite City High School Invitational Wrestling Tournament, which opens Wednesday night at the gym Wednesday and Thursday.

The Warriors wrestlers will meet opponents from all but four schools in the first round, which will begin at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Schools the Warriors will not meet in the round are Bloomington, Jacksonville, Rock Island and Sterling.

Expected starters for Granite City and their opponents' schools in the first round are: Phil Lapinski (106), Wood River; Gary Loy (165), Belleville; John Kiebur or Harry Miller (112), Carbondale; Kerry Johnson (119), Alton; Dennis Ragan (126), Wood River; Doug Wilson (132), Decatur.

Charlie Mayfield (138), River View; Rich Paschke (145), Richmond; Phil Lincoln (153), East St. Louis; John Avedisian or Jack Schooley (167), Edwardsville; Tom Riet (182), East St. Louis; and Gary Stephens (heavyweight), Bethalto Civic Memorial.

Several wrestlers have been injured in the line-up and could revert to their former position if injured wrestlers return.

Each wrestler will compete until he accumulates six penalty points, which will eliminate him from the tournament. Points range from four against a wrestler who is pinned to no points for a winner by a fall.

The first session, Wednesday night, will include competition in the first round and the first six weight classes of the second round. Wrestling will resume at noon Thursday with the remainder of the second round and competition in the third round. The finals, with a round-off, will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Wrestlers in each weight class, scheduled for 3 p.m. Thursday, concluding about 6 p.m. Lincoln will be defending its title from last year while Sterling will be attempting to do one better.

Place better than last year in the final round, Granite City finished in a tie for third with Richwoods at last year's event.

Final Match Pin Gives GCHS Over Ritenour

The undefeated Granite City High School wrestling squad met its most formidable opponent this season Tuesday evening at Overland, Mo., where the Warriors barely squeaked out a 2-1 victory.

The winner was determined in the final bout of the night in which Craig Stephens (heavyweight) escaped from a predicament, with the score 21-18, and turned the tables on his Ritenour opponent, pinning him in 5:30.

Stephens trailed 5-4 in the match at the time. If he had lost, Ritenour would have earned the victory.

The Warriors started strong in the dual meet as Phil Lapinski (106) won by a 2-0 decision, and Gary Loy took a forfeit, his second in a row, to Granite City's 9-0 lead. Loy is undefeated this season with 13 victories to his credit.

Ritenour picked up three points when Mike Catlin, the 1970 Missouri state champion, defeated Warrior Junior Niebur (123) 12-3. Warrior Kerry Johnson (119) gave Granite City a 1-2 lead by winning a 6-4 decision, but Dennis Ragan (126) dropped his match 5-4 to give Ritenour three more points.

Doug Wilson (132) earned a 5-2 decision in the sixth match to give the Warriors a 1-5 lead at the halfway mark, but Willie Mayfield (138) followed with an 8-0 loss and Rich Paschke (145) lost 5-1 in the eighth match to bring the score to 15-12.

Andy Mielke (155) came back from a 1-5 deficit to pin his opponent 5-0 giving the Warriors six more points. Jack Schooley (167) lost on a 7-4 decision, Tom Riet (182) dropped his match 4-1 to Roy Hartzell to narrow the Granite City lead to three points going into the final bout. Kaleret defeated Hartzell in the Ritenour consolation Tournament Dec. 10 and 11.

Had Coach Worried? "I thought we had lost when Stephens was in a predicament situation, but he managed to pull out and get a pin. It was a real shock. I was surprised. The Warriors lost to Ritenour last season by one point, 21-20. Each team took six bouts but the two Warriors pins accounted for the victory.

Also at Ritenour, the Granite City junior varsity wrestlers earned a 3-21 victory but the sophomore squad lost 3-27. Winners by falls for the JV squad: Pat MacMillan, Mike Green, John Avedisian, while Bill Lovachek, Rudy Pyle and Fred Trokey earned pins for the sophomores.

Cougar Cagers Close Road Trip With Losses

Cougar basketball players from Southern Illinois University-Southwestern remained unsuccessful in finding a winning rally, as they wound up a Louisiana road trip with a 1-3 loss to Louisiana State University at New Orleans Tuesday night.

It was the seventh defeat in as many outings for the Cougars who were tripped in the final seconds 80-79 by Louisiana College at Pineville Monday night.

SIU-SW was within eight points of LSU in the second half before the New Orleans team pulled away. The first half deficit was 35-40.

Jerry Blaudow led the Cougars with 18 points while Denny Thirneburg and Gene Bouds each had 16. Other local cagers in the scoring column were Jerry Blaudow with 8, Roy Whitford and Dave James 5, Tony Johnson 10, Sam Holmes 7, Thurman Ferrie 4 and Terry Frailey and Steve Hutchison 2.

The LSU Privateers, now 3-2 and 2 rated and No. 1 last season in the NCAA college division, were led by John Hammon with 39 points and Mel Henderson with 33.

The Cougars were outshot from the field 46-39 and from the free throw line 26-16.

It appeared that the Cougars were headed for their first victory of the season Monday night.

'Very Special Club' Wants To Choose the Airport Site

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)
If you look at it one way, it's easy enough to understand why 20 leading businessmen and one community allowed themselves to be identified the other way with a group called Citizens for a Missouri Airport, one of the 50 live in St. Louis County.

People who live out there tend to overlook the significance of an East Side site to the economic life of the core city.
But if you look at it another way, you might wonder why a banker or manufacturer whose business is in the city would be caught looking the other way.

The average citizen assumes that a guy who is president of a big corporation is kept busy enough. But it looks as if he isn't.
Corporations are governed by boards of directors, and sooner or later somebody winds up on somebody else's board.

Some people call it "interlocking." It has also been called mutual back scratching. Not that there's anything wrong with it, given the business moves of our time. It's so much a part of the system, as a matter of fact, that hardly anybody gives a second thought to it. But it just naturally becomes a club.

In St. Louis, the very special club, Civic Progress, Inc., requires that you be head of one of our 26 largest corporations, or one of our two largest universities, or the Chamber of Commerce.

Civic Progress makes the basic economic decisions for St. Louis, even if most of its members live in the county.
And unlike its long rapport with our previous mayor, the late Raymond S. Tucker, Civic Progress fell out some time ago with Al Cervantes.

We imagine Cervantes confounded them a little the other day with a pledge of $35,400,000 from the governor of Illinois for mass transit to link St. Louis with an East Side airport, matched with $70,000,000 in federal funds.

Their position—until they get themselves together, I suppose—is, "What's the hurry?"
The champion interlocker of them all is Dave Calhoun, head of First Union, Inc., the bank holding company that owns St. Louis Union Trust and First National Bank of St. Louis.

Calhoun has been the leading lion of the business community for a couple of decades, and a leader of Civic Progress. He's for a Missouri airport, too. We were checking Standard and Poor's the other day, and as far as we can determine Dave Calhoun belongs to the board of directors of 16 companies, give or take a few since the last edition. Included are outfits like Emerson Electric, Anheuser-Busch, Interco, Union Electric, Monsanto, St. Joe Minerals and 10 others.

Maybe that's good for business, but it sounds like an awful lot of meetings.
Buck Persons, chairman and chief officer of Emerson, is on the committee, and he's on 11 boards as well—including St. Louis Union Trust, First National Bank and Anheuser-Busch.

Gussie Busch has six boards himself plus the Missouri Airport committee. Harold Thayer of Mallinckrodt has five boards. You can see why they all get together.

Don Lasater, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Mercantile Trust, is one of the youngest. He's only 36. He's on three boards, so far, including Interco and General American. But you can see he's on his way.

These are some of the businessmen who are for a Missouri Airport. As a rule, they don't have much use for Mayor Cervantes. But you wouldn't think they'd be writing the city off, unless there are an awful lot of lousy backs in St. Louis County.

Or unless they're planning to bail some business out of the city some time in the 20 years before that airport actually gets built.

Cash Register Stolen
A cash register containing small change was stolen in a burglary at the Kerr-McGee Service Station, 1151 Edwardsville Road, at 5:05 a.m. Wednesday by two men who were seen leaving in a green foreign car. Entry was gained by throwing a stone through a door of the station's confectionery.

Youths Steal Purse From Girl, 6, in Car
A group of boys, approximately 15 years of age, demanded that a 6-year-old girl give them her mother's purse and took $5, a coupon book and several cards from the purse at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Mae Ella Chatman, 1124 Douglas St., told police she left her daughter, Margaret, and her two sons, John, 8, and Michael, 5, in her car in the 300 block of Selb Avenue for a few moments and while she was gone the boys approached the car and demanded the purse. They fled with the purse and threw it in a church lawn at Calhoun street and Selb avenues after taking the wallet. Three boys were arrested a

275 at Moose Lodge Children's Party

More than 275 youngsters and an equal number of adults were entranced by the tricks and antics of magician Tom Dean and Jingles the Clown at Moose Lodge 272's annual Christmas party for children held this week.

The local husband and wife team amazed their young audience with feats of magic skill prior to the arrival of Santa Claus. The jolly old gentleman listened to the Christmas wishes of each child while helpers distributed Yule stockings to the children.

Entertainment also was furnished by the youthful partygoers themselves, who sang

Christmas melodies for their parents and family members. A luncheon, including ice cream, cake and other holiday fare, was served by members of Women of the Moose Chapter 247.

Immediately following the children's party, a group of Lodge 271 members delivered a quantity of Christmas stockings to young patients at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Later last week volunteers from the local lodge decorated the Moose Hall at 19th and Adams streets for the special occasion. They also filled the holiday stockings to be presented to the young guests and hospitalized children.

JINGLES THE CLOWN proved a popular figure, rivaling Santa Claus, at the Moose Lodge children's party this week. Lodge members later delivered Yule stockings to youthful patients at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Next to Jingles are Mrs. Harriet (Judy) Woehl and infant daughter, Christi, 1909 Spruce St. Youngster facing camera is Lisa Harrell, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Harrell, 4821 Warnock Ave.

SIU Religious Center Is Scene of Wedding

Miss Kay Lynne Kimmle, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kimmle of O'Fallon, Ill., and Mark Stephen Friederich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Friederich, 2138 Clark Ave., exchanged wedding vows in a 7 p.m. ceremony Dec. 18 at the University Religious Center on the Southern Illinois University.

Dan Becherer, at the organ, played the traditional Wedding March, the recessional and "Love Theme" from Romeo and Juliet. The chapel was picturesquely decorated with bouquets of pink mums and white gladioli and branched candelabra holding lighted tapers.

The eucumenical ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wilbur Fulton Jr., and the Rev. James Shortall.

For her wedding, the bride wore a white velvet A-line gown designed with long sleeves cuffed with lace. Lace was repeated on the stand-up collar and a wide band of insertion lace interwoven with velvet ribbon embellished the front of the gown from neck to hem. Small velvet covered buttons closed the back of the bodice from the neck to a velvet bow at the waist.

A white lace caplet held in place a floor length mantilla veil and train, edged in wide lace, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of white carnations and pink Sweetheart roses tied with long streamers forming rosettes with pink rose buds.

Mrs. Lynn Marmeno of East Alton, matron of honor and Miss Karen Kimmle, a sister of the bride, the bridesmaid, were dressed identically. Their formal length gowns were fashioned in Empire style, with long sleeves trimmed in lace and a matching lace bolero.

The honor attendant was in burgundy velvet and Miss Kimmle's dress was in candy pink velvet. They wore white lace caplets on their hair and held Colonial bouquets of pink carnations and burgundy Sweetheart roses elaborately ribboned with pink and burgundy velvet.

Mrs. Kimmle chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of French blue crepe knit styled with matching lace at the neck line and on both sides of the skirt. She wore matching accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Friederich, was attired in a dress and coat ensemble of rose pink polyester and wool complemented with dyed-to-match accessories.

Wedding guests greeted the newlyweds at a reception held at the VFW Hall in Trenton, Ill., immediately following the ceremony.

The bride recently received a B.S. degree in Speech Pathology and Audiology from SIU-SW. She presently is employed in O'Fallon.

Mr. Friederich is completing his senior year at SIU-SW, where he is majoring in chemistry. He also is employed as a research assistant at the local university.

What Is the Rush to Build Airport? 30 Years Isn't Rushing -- St. Louis Mayor Replies

By A. J. CERVANTES

Mayor of St. Louis
The application for the acquisition of land for our new St. Louis metropolitan airport is the realization of a goal and a dream toward which many in the past and present have worked for nearly 30 years.

The City of St. Louis has from the very beginning of the age of air travel shouldered the total responsibility for providing an airport for the citizens of St. Louis and the St. Louis metropolitan area.

The first action of the leadership of the city in recognition of the need of a new airport was taken in the 1940s by Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann when he purchased land at Columbia Bottoms as the site for the new airport.

In 1940, his successor, Mayor Joseph M. Darst, proposed that the new metropolitan airport should be located in Illinois. Mayor Darst received the support of business and political leaders, as well as the major newspapers. But the efforts were abandoned three years later when it was impossible to put together a package that would do the job.

My immediate predecessor, the late Raymond R. Tucker, was able to move to the establishment of a City-County Airport Commission which had as its goal the establishment of a new airport. This effort fell apart when the county refused to provide any resources and withdrew from the commission. When I became mayor of the city in 1965, it was clear from reports of all the airlines and from our own computations that we must find a way to provide a new major metropolitan airport if we in the St. Louis area were to maintain our place as an air transportation leader in the nation.

In 1967, the studies of the airport commission which had as its goal the establishment of a new airport, showed that we must find a way to serve approximately 20 million air passengers by the 1980s.

I could not turn to the state for help because they were unable to provide funds to meet their own basic responsibility of mental health care, correction institutions and other state obligations. I was confronted directly with the dilemma of where to turn.

During that time, our Airport Commission had studied in depth the possibilities of expanding Lambert Field to meet the potential need and found that such an expansion was impossible due to the severe adverse effect it would have upon the neighboring residential and industrial land uses.

The Airport Commission acquired the services of Horner & Shifrin, and it was determined the best possible site would be in Illinois to the east of Down town St. Louis.

Having no place to turn for help in Missouri, I began discussions with the leaders of Illinois. After our discussions, they were willing to enter into a partnership with the City of St. Louis and to provide the land, the money, and the legal structure that would make a new airport a reality for the metropolitan area.

Through this partnership, we will have a new metropolitan airport at no additional cost in tax dollars to the people of St. Louis.

In fact, another significant step forward in this partnership for the health and growth of the City of St. Louis and the St. Louis metropolitan area occurred Dec. 13 when Governor Ogilvie made available to us the engineering and construction money which will make mass transit a reality for the City of St. Louis and our region.

There have been many who have asked why I would go to the State of Illinois about the future health of St. Louis. I think the events of the last few days indicate precisely the reason.

By establishing a partnership for our metropolitan area, not only have we reached the point of making mass transit a reality, but we are here to complement upon a new major metropolitan airport which is made possible by the commitment of millions of dollars by the state of Illinois.

At no time have all of those who have criticized this important effort stepped forward to make available the money that would do the job. Because we have established this partnership, all, however, will benefit.

As you know, there have been many who have recently rushed to criticize the action we have taken.

Officials who originally endorsed our efforts turned to opposition when it became politically popular to be for a Missouri site.

It is time we recognize that political gains are one thing—and real action to provide a prosperous future for the City of St. Louis and the entire metropolitan area is much more important.

It was approximately one year ago that the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council endorsed the efforts of the state of Illinois and the City of St. Louis to provide a new metropolitan airport.

At that time the resolution expressed the fact that the plans for an airport located in Illinois would completely conform with the goals and the plans for this region to further build up the central city.

The plans adopted by the Council for the future development of this region recognized the inescapable reality that the future well-being of every part of the metropolitan area is dependent upon the future well-being of the City of St. Louis.

As the mayor, I must, of course, speak very specifically about the vital importance of this new airport to our city.

We in the central city of this region are faced with the same economic problems that confront every central city in the U.S. The outward migration of industry and people continues to drain away resources needed to maintain the vitality of the city and the central business core of the entire metropolitan area.

The importance of maintaining and expanding the development of the central business area was recognized by the Gateway Council when it adopted the two alternative land use plans for the metropolitan area, both of which emphasize the development of the city and its central business district.

A new St. Louis metropolitan airport at the Columbia-Waterloo site in Illinois will bring important new life to the central city and thus to the entire metropolitan area.

All of the studies conducted by the City of St. Louis, the state of Illinois, and the state of Missouri have indicated the importance of locating the new metropolitan airport at Columbia-Waterloo to our efforts of redeveloping and revitalizing the City of St. Louis.

For example, the Northrup report which was prepared for the state of Missouri indicated that the Columbia-Waterloo site would provide almost twice as many new jobs to the residents of the City of St. Louis, 6,000 new jobs, as would the site at either the Smart or Dardenne sites considered.

The Northrup report goes on to speak in terms of the total income generated by a second airport.

It found that, by 1990, the City of St. Louis would realize an additional $17,383,000 a year income from the Columbia-Waterloo site compared to approximately $8 million from the St. Charles-Smart site and approximately $13 million from the Dardenne site.

Neither of the alternative sites proposed by Missouri have proven to be feasible airport sites.

But the important point is that all studies agree that the new St. Louis metropolitan airport located at Columbia-Waterloo, Ill., will have the greatest positive economic impact upon the City of St. Louis.

It has been a long, hard, thirty-year struggle to reach the point we are at today. What is most important, however, is that we have arrived and we are ready to move ahead to develop a new metropolitan airport which will insure the health and future of the city and the entire metropolitan area.

We have a site which has proved technically feasible. We have a site which is in conformance with the plans for the metropolitan area as adopted by the Gateway Council.

Most importantly, we have the commitments of Illinois for the $15 million which enables us to enter this application to the federal government.

There are those who have recently counseled that we should slow down. They ask, "What is the rush?"

While I am sure that most are well intentioned, it should be crystal clear that a 30-year process to achieve a new metropolitan airport can hardly be called rushing.

Let us not find ourselves as leaders of the St. Louis metropolitan area in 1971 making the same drastic mistake that was made by our predecessors in the last century.

While they argued about whether or not Eads Bridge would be provided to a major rail transportation center for the entire nation, Ron Holzh, who had come from school to change his schooling.

The 38-year-old mother was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital and transferred to Firmen Desloge Hospital where she was admitted in an unconscious state.

Since she does not have any hospitalization insurance, her employer, Mrs. Alice Magers, is collecting donations to assist with the hospital expense. She has collected more than $100 which now is being transferred to a fund at Granite City Trust and Savings Bank. Higher Telephone Rates Go Into Effect Dec. 26

New tariffs for communications service in that portion of Madison and St. Clair counties served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. were filed Tuesday, it was announced by R. Ray Shockley, the company's vice-president for Missouri-Illinois.

The tariffs are those the Illinois Commerce Commission directed the company to file in an order issued late last week. They will be effective Dec. 28.

Shockley expressed "extreme disappointment" with the commission's order, which granted only $1.5 million in additional revenue.

The company had asked for an increase totaling $2.2 million in order to meet the growing communications needs of its Illinois customers.

"The amount of $1.5 million in new revenues, which the commission estimates will create only $768,000 in additional income, simply does not meet our needs under current economic conditions," Shockley said. "We are studying courses of action available to us."

"We have an obligation to provide our customers with the kind of service they want and need. In order to accomplish this, our business, like any other, must operate on a sound financial basis."

"Even the amount we originally asked for has since become inadequate for today's needs."

"We have experienced more inflation since we filed for an increase in December 1970—and that was the first time we had asked for an increase in more than ten years of steadily rising costs of doing business."

68 Grant Employees Earn Yuletide Bonuses

Sixty-eight employees of W. T. Grant Co., 20 Nameoki Village Shopping Center, were among the employees in the national chain which shared in more than $800,000 in Christmas bonuses as part of the company's Christmas Gift Program.

Melvin L. Gillie, store manager, told the employees, "This is just one of the company's ways of saying thank you to Grant employees who do their utmost to give customers courteous and efficient service."

"We have an obligation to provide our customers with the kind of service they want and need. In order to accomplish this, our business, like any other, must operate on a sound financial basis."

More Should Take Vaccine to Avoid Measles--Yoder

(Copy News Service)

SPRINGFIELD — Though measles cases reported in Illinois are currently holding the normal rate for this period of the year, Illinois Public Health Department officials continue to predict that the state will experience a measles epidemic in coming weeks.

Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, director of the Public Health Department, said that between 70 and 100 cases are presently being reported weekly, scattered generally throughout the state.

"The figure he said, is normal for this season; the department probably won't know until after the first of the year whether there are indeed signs that the predicted epidemic is shaping up."

Despite development of a successful vaccine against measles in 1964, Dr. Yoder said, its use has not been widespread enough to check development of the disease.

"Unless this condition is halted and reversed," Dr. Yoder said, "we can expect an epidemic of major proportions within the next year."

He added that the widespread scattering of reports from throughout Illinois on present cases indicates "the ground-work is definitely there. We are still predicting that an epidemic is going to occur."

Efforts have been stepped up recently to provide many children as possible with the vaccine through community-wide immunization clinics.

Measles has been cited by James Donoho, head of the department's State Immunization Project, as being "one of the most serious of childhood diseases," because of the frequent, serious complications and after-effects.

These include deafness, blindness or mental retardation, which reportedly occur in roughly one out of every thousand cases of measles.

The public health department keeps tabs on the reporting of such disease as measles and polio. This way, the department can tell residents what precautions are to be taken if the disease shows signs of spreading.

Lives of Many Badly Injured Are Being Saved In Illinois

By GOVERNOR RICHARD B. OGILVIE

Vietnam veterans are saving lives in Illinois.

From their tough battlefield experience as medical corpsmen, these veterans are drawing the lessons that are helping critically injured persons to survive at home.

In less than five months since I dedicated the state's first regional trauma center here at St. John's Hospital, more than 3,000 patients have received fast and expert help.

The mortality rate is 2.2 per hundred—a rate comparable to that in Vietnam, the lowest for any war in our history.

This is the best proof that the statewide plan for care of the critically injured is working in Illinois.

Regional centers have been established also at the following hospitals, all of which have a medical school association: St. John's, Springfield; Doctors Memorial, Carbondale; Francis, Peoria; St. Anthony's, Rockford; Burnham City, Champaign; Evanston Hospital, Evanston; Cook County, Chicago; and Loyola University Medical Center, Maywood.

Last Saturday I opened the special statewide center for all critically injured Illinois children at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

These centers are staffed to provide the best care possible for persons with multiple, terrible injuries.

Not everyone, however, requires this high a level of care, sometimes far from home and family.

That's why we are also establishing a network of area and local trauma centers to complete what is the first such system anywhere in the country.

Trauma, in medical parlance, means any kind of physical injury.

St. Joseph's Hospital in Joliet is the first area-wide center. Local centers have been established at St. Francis Hospital, Litchfield, and St. Mary's in Lincoln Memorial Hospital, Lincoln.

One of the major tools to test the effectiveness of the new Illinois Plan is the computer network that links trauma centers to a master computer at the University of Illinois medical center in Chicago.

With this system, we have continuing statistics that show how many critically injured persons who might have died or been left crippled are being restored to a full life.

Two central roles the Vietnam medical corpsmen are playing in our trauma centers are those of instructors and coordinators.

Many of them have had 20 years or more of experience seeing and aiding men critically injured by gunfire, mines and accidents.

While the causes of accidents here are different, the injuries many times are similar, in that several areas of the body are affected, and certain vital signs require constant attention.

As instructors, the trauma coordinators—as we call the returned medical corpsmen—will work first with ambulance drivers and attendants.

After police, they are the first line of defense against the poor handling of accident victims that has contributed so heavily to aggravating the victims' injuries.

Another critical role that law enforcement men and ambulance personnel will assume is to determine how skilled a level of treatment—local, area or regional—is required.

Modern radio communications with surgeons "on duty at trauma centers will permit on-the-scene consultations on each doubtful case.

The Illinois Plan has already attracted national notice, and several states have sent representatives here to consult with the doctors who head the project.

Our aim is to try to provide throughout Illinois the kind of fast and expert service that is the model of the Vietnam war zones.

Yet we must cover an area far greater than the battle zones, and try to provide service in isolated rural areas as well as in the cities.

I think it's clear already that we are saving lives.

And I am hopeful that we will continue to improve service to the critically injured so that no one dies needlessly, or suffers from a permanent disability that could have been prevented.

The response to date from the medical profession and the state's hospitals has been tremendous.

With their help, the Illinois Plan can become the model for the nation.

November Canal Freight 4.2 Million Tons

Freight shipped through the Chain of Rocks Locks and Canal during November increased slightly over that of October, but dropped substantially from shipments during November 1970, the U.S. Corps of Engineers reported this week.

November shipments totaled 4,242,390 tons, slightly above the 4,212,852 tons in October but lower than the 4,861,176 in November of 1970.

Total shipments during the first 11 months of the year is nearly 2-million tons less than last year when 47,144,530 tons of freight passed through the canal. This year, shipments totaling 45,210,367 tons moved through the canal during the 11-month period.

The total number of vessels passing through the locks last month decreased to 5,654 from 5,855 in October. The number was higher than in November 1970 when 5,411 vessels were logged.

In the first 11 months of this year, 59,503 vessels have passed through the locks, slightly less than the 60,775 reported in the same period last year.

Fewer Vessels Loaded

The numbers of all types of vessels passing through the canal showed decreased during the month with the exception of passenger boats which increased from three in October to five in November, U.S. patrol boats which increased from 12 to 19 in the two month period, and U.S. construction boats with one last month and none in October.

Commercial tow boats decreased from 1,105 in October to 1,103 in November, barges dropped from 4,532 to 4,382, private recreation boats declined from 171 to 81, U.S. tow boats decreased from three to two, and U.S. barges went down from one to two. Lockages during November totaled 1,138 as compared to 1,084 the previous month. Lockages reported thus far this year total 9,946, higher than the 9,552 during the same period of 1970.

Total commercial tonnage moving upriver in November was 1,801,290 tons and 2,441,060 tons moved downriver. Freight shipments included: petroleum products, 616,340 tons upriver, 255,105 tons downriver; grain, 38,600 up, 1,880,250 down; coal, 224,500 up, 7,600 down; cement, sand and gravel, 24,800 up, 85,300 down; sulphur, 51,000 up, zero down; miscellaneous commodities, 483,650 up, 85,550 down; iron and steel products, 23,200 up, 66,210 down; chemicals, 385,500 up, 61,000 down.

Parent-Teacher Meets On Pupil Needs Lauded

Elementary teachers in the Granite City School District are convinced that it makes more sense to fashion instruction to meet the individual needs of their pupils than it does to try to shape children to fit a ready-made curriculum mold, the Board of Education was told Monday night.

"They feel the same way about reporting each pupil's progress in school to parents," Owen E. Humphrey, school coordinator, said, "and if the instruction deserves individual attention, so does the reporting."

Teachers in 11 elementary schools have conducted face-to-face conferences with parents, during which time the exchange of home-school information was helpful to both parents and teachers, Humphrey said.

"Parents learned how the school viewed the strengths and weaknesses of each child's progress, and teachers learned how they might revise the child's program of instruction to facilitate his unique pattern of learning," the coordinator said.

"Parents in the community have responded well to the conference reporting technique, Humphrey said. Of 3,443 families representing the 11 schools, 2,181 or 61.8% participated in the conference sessions.

"School personnel have been surprised and pleased with the number of conferences held in which both parents participated," he said. "A total of 4,259 parents took part in the exchange of information."

"While it is hoped that the practice might be perpetuated after this year, recent school legislation has reduced available time in the school calendar, and school authorities are concerned that it may have to be abandoned in future years."

Need More Foster Homes for Teenagers

Applications still are needed from individuals in Madison and Bond counties who are interested in offering their homes for the foster care of teen agers, according to the Edwardsville District Office of the Department of Children and Family Services. The department said that out of 87 responses, only 16 applicants proved to be good prospects for the care of teenage foster children.

According to Joel R. Strayer, the foster home licensing representative, a large number of the 87 applicants was not accepted for consideration as foster parents as they were interested only in caring for children under 10 years of age. Many of the applicants felt unable to meet the challenge of providing the necessary care and guidance for teenagers, he said.

Circumstances leading to placement of children by the department is often due to family conflicts, broken relationships and the inability of their own parents to make a go of it, Strayer said. Normal behavioral problems exhibited by all teenagers are often exaggerated by foster children because of their feelings of confusion and rejection of not being in their own homes.

Persons desiring more information on the requirements and expectations of being foster parents for teenagers are invited to contact Joel R. Strayer at the Edwardsville Office of the Department of Children and Family Services, 116 Hillsboro Ave., at 656-9220.

'BETTER TO GIVE THAN TO RECEIVE'

To the Editor: The Legend of the Christmas rose concerns a little shepherd girl of Bethlehem. It is said that she followed the shepherds and a little request for small pro-rated appropriation for a school counselor training program.

All except the little girl had gifts for the newborn babe. Sad at heart, she trudged behind her brothers, pondering over her plight.

Suddenly, there appeared an angel in a glow of light who scattered beautiful white roses in her path. Joyfully she picked them up and hurried to catch up with the shepherds.

When she arrived at the manger, she placed them as her gift at the feet of the Baby Jesus.

This was the beginning of Christmas giving. Somewhere along the way this changed to Christmas exchanging. We buy a $3 gift for Aunt Minnie because we expect a gift from her and if she doesn't come through we drop her next year.

Our Christmas gift list is made up of names of people who we know will remember us with a gift.

We were always told it was more pleasure to give than to receive, but we all sometimes doubt this. We all like to receive gifts.

Let's look at my Christmas list and yours. Do we have anyone on this list that we are giving a gift when we know one will be given us? If so, then this is a gift from the heart.

He who has no Christmas in his heart will never find Christmas under a tree.

Yule Customs Change But Christmas Still Much Like the Good Old Days

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copy News Service

Remember when the Christmas tree was a green fir or pine, painted only by nature? Or when even Mom and Dad hung their stockings on the fireplace mantle Christmas Eve?

Or when kids were approaching their teens before they found out much about that wondrous old gentleman, Kris Kringle?

All that and more was before the birth of America's so-called affluent society a few decades ago, before the Yuletide gift industry began to burgeon into a multi-million-dollar seasonal enterprise.

Did the affluent society snuff out the traditional American Christmas, brought to this country across the Atlantic by the Pilgrims?

And what about peace on earth, good will toward men? Has it become strictly a hollow phrase which comes and goes with each Christmas holiday?

None of these questions has pat answers one way or the other. Yet each raises some doubts as to whether Americans observe Christmas as they did earlier in this century.

Without passing judgment, let's look at some of the changes over the years:

The Yuletide tree of another era was a rich dark green, freshly cut from the forest. Today, it is likely to be plastic and just about any color you want, from cerise to baby blue.

Or, if you must have a natural tree, you may have to look a while to find one that isn't scrawny.

That's because the handsome trees have been air-brushed into multi-colored triangles or floored with white or red snow, or maybe blue.

The 75-cent tree which used to go on sale at the corner vacant lot is no more. You can get a fair tree for $5 to $7.50, but $15 will buy you a far more hardy one.

As for the old custom of the folks pinning up their stockings with those of the kids, it's not a lost but certainly a rare Yule custom today.

The parents usually are too busy doing the last-minute pre-meeting Dec. 14. I was shocked by the fact that nothing was accomplished at a time of critical budget problems for the Granite City Clinic, limiting severely the number of cases they can handle.

There was a letter request for small pro-rated appropriation for a school counselor training program.

Action on these requests was tabled for the third and fourth times, respectively.

Basically, nothing was accomplished because the board chairman refused to accept the legal advice of Assistant State's Attorney "Zeke" Smith, that the board had a quorum present.

Naturally, if all, or even one more member had been present the problem might not have arisen. However, since there was some doubt as to certain board members and non-board members that Sylvester Burger was actually still a member of the board, a quorum might not be present pending the court decision on this matter in January.

I'm not attacking Chairman Yemmi's action because, even though he didn't accept the legal advice, he did what he felt was right and he, rightly so, was reluctant to get any 708 Board decisions in controversy.

My point is that when one agrees to be on a board of any organization, public or private, one accepts also that responsibility of attending each board meeting and fulfilling the duties.

If they are not present and a quorum is not met, no concrete work can be accomplished, wasting everyone's time and, in this case, taxpayers' money who paid the expenses of those men who attended.

If there is no quorum, the people hurt by lack of the services funded in part by the 708 Board.

I have yet to see all seven 708 Board members at a single 708 meeting.

Grand Jury Right in Rejecting 'Sin' Label

But Village Procedures Should Be Altered

The Madison County Grand Jury in its report Tuesday on activities in the Village of Pontoon Beach decided that it lacks the requisite evidence of extortion by law enforcement officials, nor large-scale or organized gambling, prostitution or drug traffic.

We agree generally with this conclusion, and we had not jumped aboard the bandwagon of calling Pontoon Beach a "sin city," as two newspapers and a number of broadcast stations had done.

We nevertheless have the impression that the administration of Village President Thomas Staicoff has been a bit easy-going, a mite too relaxed and jovial, about matters that could have serious implications if carried to an extreme.

The administration has admittedly been willing to "waive rules and technicalities" where it believed such waiver is in the best interest of Pontoon Beach and its residents; this soundness of view, however, must be based on personal judgment and perhaps too-hasty evaluations.

Such an informal approach could never be an accepted substitute for a formal system of laws, since laws that are just and fair must be amended. When rules are written and widely known and understood, both law enforcement officers and the citizenry have more of a fighting chance to perform their respective duties.

The Grand Jury "found a trustee interested directly or indirectly in contracts for the performance of work for the village in which he has been called upon to vote, and we find that there is a conflict of interest and are returning an indictment on the same."

This charge will need to be resolved in court, and the entire village ought to keep it in mind in its future official transactions.

The jury also recommended that "complaints be filed against two people for failing to register under the Assumed Name Business Act." If there is no bribery involved, the village may be better able to avoid potential interest conflicts, since it will be aware of who is operating the firms from which it makes purchases.

Food for thought also was provided for Pontoon Beach officials by the following Grand Jury comments:

"The prosecuting attorney for cities and villages and the State's Attorney have a joint right to prosecute traffic violations on roadways and highways running through and in the district and jurisdiction of the cities or villages. Their own (village) attorney may prosecute any violations. "With the right of prosecution, there is also a right not to prosecute. The voiding or non-prosecution of tickets issued is not a crime if unattended and no money is involved. If done to a great extent, it leads to an unhealthy situation and lowers the morale of the police force."

"It is our suggestion that Pontoon Beach use an attorney to control the manner or procedure in the issuance of tickets to and through prosecution. If they fail to do so, the State's Attorney should make strong recommendations to the police and to the (village) officials."

"The handling, processing, execution and suing under present contracts that Pontoon Beach has entered into with the State's Attorney for the prosecution of traffic violations on roadways and highways running through and in the district and jurisdiction of the cities or villages. Beach has that are still unresolved is not a criminal matter but civil. Any bad or poor business practices in the operation of a city, village or government entity—or poor fiscal management or policies—do not make the matters criminal and subject to a grand jury investigation. Adequate civil remedies are elsewhere available.

"It is strongly recommended that the Village of Pontoon Beach use its lawyer at every village meeting and confer with him extensively about usual and proper procedures and legal matters in the running of government."

Many of these suggestions are relatively simple and inexpensive to implement, and we think the village should do just that.

'Santa Claus Exists as Certainly as Love and Generosity and Devotion . . .'

"(Is there a Santa Claus?) is the question Virginia, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Philip F. O'Hanlon, put to the editor of The Baltimore Sun in September 1897. Her letter was turned over to Francis Pharcellus Church to answer. The product of his fine nature, mellow wisdom and craftsmanship was the famous editorial which we reprint below.)

Is there a Santa Claus?
We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun:

"Dear Editor:
I am 8 years old.

Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

Papa says 'If you see it in The Sun it's so.'

Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon
115 West 95th Street

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see.

They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little.

In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy.

Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias.

There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus? You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove?

Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real of things is the world that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there.

Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside. But there is no

Mendes' Group Is Same But With New Ideas

By JUDY HUGG
Copley News Service

In keeping with the fast changing pace of today, Sergio Mendes has once again renamed his group. It all started out several years ago as Brasil '65, then it was updated to Brasil '66 and just recently, with an eye on the future, it was changed to Brasil '77.

"The new name will help keep our future orientation in the public consciousness," explained the young bearded Mendes. "It means no one can think of us as living in the past, rehearsing old sounds. We have never done that, but confusion can arise over labels."

However, even though the name has been changed, the faces remain the same as those which put together '65's last album, "Stillness." Now, under their new title, they have just released a new album called "Pais Tropical-Sergio Mendes and Brasil '77" on the A&M label.

"Pais Tropical" is typical of the Mendes style which has made him as popular in Japan as at Carnegie Hall, New York. It has a sprinkling of Portuguese and English vocalizing that goes well with his super-instrumental and makes for an exciting and commercial sound. It is also the result of a new experimental stage in the group's growth.

"Yes, we're the same group, but there is an influx of new ideas and experiments taking place," he said. "Brasil '66 was always conservative in basic musical structures. That is part of the pop sound, you know, simplicity and we have prided ourselves on being creative with it."

Flamenco Rhythms

Sergio uses his genius to develop and incorporate the old bossa nova, jazz, rock and pop sounds into jazz throbbing strains that do not bore the listener. He has also cooled down the fiery flamenco rhythms and the hard-driving tango tempo of music into a sound that is exotic as well as intoxicating.

"Our Brazilian and American sounds have become popular everywhere, and now we are trying some sounds and rhythms from the different places that have accepted us in the past. I feel that music is an international art, I think, and our work is going to reflect that more faithfully," he said.

Irregular time signatures, different styles of songs, different approaches to arranging are the things he is talking about. Although Sergio runs a tight ship, all of the troupe members have a helping hand in creating their music.

"We experiment tirelessly until our ideas either sound together or simply don't work," he said. "And the girls are always present at rehearsals because I still believe in their value as additional instruments as well as vocalists."

In order to pull all the ends together, he has built a new 16-track recording studio at his spacious Encino, Calif., home. The studio is used also to house the entire troupe when it is not out on the road.

Mendes was born in Niteroi, a city across the bay from Rio de Janeiro, and started serious piano lessons at the age of 7. He attended the National Conservatory of Music in Rio where he became proficient on the organ, accordion, harpsichord and piano.

He then tried his hand at jazz and won awards as best pianist and arranger in Brazil in 1962 and '63.

Jazz Form Limited

"Right, I was playing jazz," he recalls, "and found that it could be a limiting form unless it was challenged. At the time, the bossa nova was doing very well all over the world and I wanted to combine the styles I knew with some other ideas."

Given the possibility that the music could meet with acceptance, I didn't want to be forming just another pop or rock group."

Thus Brasil '65 was formed and so impressed the Brazilian government that they provided the necessary funds for the group to go to the United States for a concert of Brazilian music at Carnegie Hall. It didn't go over too well, but Mendes decided to keep the group here. Soon, after experimenting with new personnel and ideas, he came up with Brasil '66.

It was then that Herb Alpert and Jerry Moss, of A&M Records, heard Mendes' group and signed them to a contract. They were an immediate success with the first album, "Herb Alpert Presents Sergio Mendes and Brasil '66," which contained their famous hit "Mas Que Nada."

The group then went on an American tour with Tijuana Brass and Mendes has remained here ever since. They are well on their way to a sixth gold album with "Pais Tropical," which has a free-swinging Latin rock beat to it. He has put his special brand of music on any number of tunes and turned them into hits and it seems that he has made it with the cut "So Many People."

"That cut and 'Gone Forever' and 'I Know You,' are in English with the rest in Portuguese," But Sergio says:

"Music is more important than words because it crosses all barriers. If people can't whistle what you're playing, forget it."

Venice School

authorized its first tax anticipation warrants about four years ago, starting at $101,000. Last year, the board borrowed $400,000 to finance operations of the schools in advance of this year's tax collection.

Deficit spending in the district has continued at an accelerated pace the past several years and despite a 40-cent tax rate increase by referendum late in 1969.

Taxes levied for Venice schools this year amounted to $742,416, while the board adopted a deficit budget totaling $2,270,907 for the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Balances Nov. 30 in the district accounts totaled — $1,032, educational fund; $34,532, building fund; $30,919, transportation fund; $240 fire and safety fund; $21,779, Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund; $60,415 bonds and interest fund; $9,388, special education building fund; $128,183 working cash fund; and $11,189, junior college fund.

The educational fund which finances physical operation of the schools, such as teachers' salaries, was augmented Monday night by transferring $100,000 from the working cash fund.

Funds Transferred
An additional $15,000 was transferred from working cash fund to Venice-Lincoln Technical Center fund, leaving only a $13,000 balance in the working cash fund.

Expenditures during November, including salaries, totaled $79,424 from the educational fund alone. Disbursements from other district funds are substantially lower.

Noting that federal and state agencies finance operations at Venice-Lincoln adult vocational center, Sup. John O. Pier pointed out, however, that payment of current expenses is made by the district with reimbursement from the sponsoring agencies after claims are submitted.

Several checks have been received, but reimbursement payments still are lagging behind, Pier said.

State Funds Overdue
Sup. Pier said that Venice Public Aid still owes $44,666 for expenses during August and September, with claims yet to be submitted for October, November and December.

Also owing the Venice district is $17,312 from the state for WIN program, covering a 12-month period from October 1970.

The Title III program still owes $8,200 for October, with November and December claims to be submitted. The state also owes $5,172 for July and August still remain unpaid, with September the school official told her through December claims board.

Reimbursement from the sponsoring agencies is notably slow, usually two to three months in arrears, Sup. Pier said. Board Member Jack Tomlin asked if anything can be done to speed up payments, but was told by Pier that every effort has been made to get payments quickly with little effect.

The program committee chairman introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. Alvin Meyer, who with her husband spent eight years in foreign countries. They had visited in the Philippines, China and South America.

The home of the hostess was decorated for the holiday as were the tables at which she waited the guests and members. Candies and a brightly burning tree were also at the setting.

Those seated were Mesdames Ray Grogg, Mary Connolly, Harry Johnson, Elizabeth Deffenbaugh, Estelle McBrien, Roy Hill, St. L. C. Harlan and Mrs. Fogle. The guests included Mesdames Myers, Geeka Krotfetz, Millie Gonen, Mary Nafstett and Mrs. Roy Hill Sr. played Santa and distributed gifts.

MORE ABOUT Mall Phase I

council Monday night said that the preliminary plan conforms in general with the original Mall concept embracing Niedringhaus Avenue and 19th Street, with exception of two deviations.

These include the elimination of the parking area that would have been provided by acquisition of the Weismann property and the provision of vehicular access on Niedringhaus between Cleveland Boulevard and Delmar Avenue.

A total of 92 existing parking places will be eliminated by the Mall, but 66 parking spaces will be provided in the Mall or a net loss of 26 spaces, the report said.

The plan recommends one-way vehicular traffic on both streets in the Mall area. This provides access for emergency vehicles as well as vehicles to access to the adjacent businesses. The report noted that the proposed design should encourage through traffic from these streets in the Mall area.

BPW Group Hosts Girls' Luncheon

Several young women sponsored by Coordinated Youth Services were guests of the Coordinated Youth Committee of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at a luncheon given this week at Howard Johnson's Restaurant in Collinsville.

Mrs. Ruth Walk, committee chairman, assisted by Vernice Workman, led a discussion on topics of interest to the youthful guests and outlined a program of events and meetings planned for January.

Plans for future programs include a demonstration and instruction on the proper application of cosmetics and skin care in relation to the use of detergents.

Guests attending were Michelle Thomas, Erlene Kay Nash, Earlene Schenck, Barbara Ann Valle, Diane Koney and Diane Deak.

Carol Fest Opens Philatelia Party

Christmas carols sung by members of the Philatelia Class of N. E. in a United Methodist Church opened their meeting Tuesday evening in the Philatelia Room of the church.

Miss Katherine VanOrder gave the lesson, "The Little Child," taken from the play, followed with prayer offered by Mrs. Edith McCasland.

Rev. Roy Baughman, pastor, gave a report on Sunday's gift for Christ.

Twenty-three members attended and participated in a gift exchange.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Earlene Schenck, chairman, assisted by Misses Mabel Stewart, VanOrder and Elva Miller.

The tables were beautifully decorated in winter scenes created by Miss Nellie Hart.

CHRISTMAS BREAKFAST FOR CIRCLE TWO, UPW

"The Christmas Story" was read by Mrs. George Holtzsch at a meeting Tuesday of Circle 2, United Presbyterian Women of the First Presbyterian Church, held in the home of Mrs. Walter Pearson, 2566 State St.

The hostess was assisted in serving a Christmas breakfast by Mrs. Milton Allen, Mrs. Len Stevens and Mrs. Ernest Veihl.

Mrs. James Henderson will be hostess to the Circle 2 members at the January meeting.

HOLIDAY GUESTS AT BRYAN WAGGONER HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Waggoner, 2514 Grand Ave., will have their children and families as guests over the Christmas holidays.

They are Warrant Officer and Mrs. Eugene Waggoner and son, Jason, from Weatherford, Tex., and Mrs. William K. Waggoner of Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mercer and son, Mark, of Granite City.

Prices in Illinois Stores Generally Stable, U.S. Says

Price control spot checks made by Internal Revenue Agents in retail stores throughout Illinois indicated generally stable prices—but some misunderstanding of the requirement for retailers to display their list of base prices.

In making this announcement, Jay G. Philpott, district director of Internal Revenue for central and southern Illinois, explained that food retailers are required to display prominently, at the place of sale, base prices of all food items except raw agricultural products.

In addition, all merchants must post a list of the 40 items in each store department which have the highest sales volume. However, if less than 40 items account for half or more of the department's sales, only these items need to be listed.

Small retailers with annual sales volume under $100,000 may consider themselves a single department.

Philpott emphasized that although the base price lists are not required to be posted until Jan. 1, 1972, no price increases are allowed until after the base prices are posted.

Further, all retailers must display at least one sign on each floor of their establishment stating that base prices information is available.

The sign must be at least 22x28 inches and should read as follows:

Ruling Clears Way for Congressional Election

Attorney General William J. Scott said in an opinion this week that the old State Electoral Board continues temporarily to have the authority it possessed before adoption of the Constitution of 1970.

The opinion, requested by Secretary of State John W. Lewis, clears the way for a special primary and election in the 15th Congressional District to name a successor to Congresswoman Charlotte T. Reid, who resigned.

The General Assembly recessed without implementing a section of the new Constitution providing for creation of a bipartisan "State Board of Elections" which shall have general supervision over the administration of registration and election laws throughout the state.

Scott said that, under the circumstances, the old board continues to have authority and can oversee the special Congressional primary scheduled for Feb. 15. The board is composed of the governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state auditor, state treasurer and the Republican and Democratic state chairmen.

In the opinion, the absence of implementing legislation, allows the board to supervise future balloting. Any other interpretation, Scott said, "would not only result in great confusion but would be absurd."

The center will include a beauty shop, quick shop, laundry, barber shop and office space.

Fighting Pollution Costly; Bills Are About to Be Sent

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield — Talk is cheap, combating pollution is expensive, and a number of Illinois communities are about to find themselves caught in the crunch of paying the money where their rhetoric is.

William L. Blaser, director of the state's Environmental Protection Agency, has announced that 80% of the sewage treatment facilities in Illinois fail to meet the July 1972 deadline for improving the operations.

Many of these haven't even begun primary sewage treatment, Blaser said, though the deadline was set in 1967 by the now-defunct state Sanitary Water Board.

Many of the communities have apparently convinced themselves the EPA won't take any action if they fail to do anything.

Blaser has repeatedly warned that they are wrong. The Environmental Protection Act "has teeth and is being enforced."

The EPA head listed three divisions of the conservation communities which have failed to proceed to meet sewage treatment standards and deadlines.

1.—The mistaken belief that the state won't enforce anti-pollution regulations.

2.—Federal funds are repeatedly promised but not delivered because of Congressional inaction.

A series of open houses began this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Zinner in Granite City and will end Jan. 1 with a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don King of Edwardsville.

Other parties are scheduled at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. William Weismantel and Mr. and Mrs. Murrell Klenke in Edwardsville and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buchanan in Alton.

A Christmas party will be given Dec. 29 at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bertoglio, Collinsville, where there will be a gift exchange.

In addition to the special parties for the foreign students, individual host families have invited the students they sponsor from other lands to attend Christmas Eve religious ceremonies and to spend Christmas day with them.

Those who cannot partake of the traditional turkey or ham will enjoy a bountiful array of vegetables, fruits and baked delicacies, according to a statement of the International Services Division.

No Fault Insurance Kiwanis Club Topic

Illinois' "No Fault" Insurance Law was the topic of a program presented by William C. Dvorak of St. Louis at Monday evening's dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club at Charlie's Restaurant, attended by 18 members.

Mr. Dvorak is Underwriting Manager of the St. Louis branch office of Aetna Life and Casualty Co. A member of the advisory board of the Missouri Assigned Risk Pool for 20 years, he is recognized throughout the St. Louis insurance market for his expertise in automobile insurance.

The guest speaker explained that Illinois is a limited no-fault plan, but is the best plan available to date. The plan should cover 80% of auto claims in the state, according to the best available estimates.

During a spirited question and answer session, Dvorak pointed out that the new law applies only to private passenger automobiles in fleets of four or less and to pickup trucks owned by individuals and not used in business.

"Several unanswerable questions will arise under the plan, as no prior legal basis exists," he stated. "However, the intent is to limit necessity for court actions, speed claim payments and try to guarantee equitable claims payment, he added."

Special Holiday Hours Set for Park Ice Rink

Special holiday hours at Wilson Park rink pavilion were announced today by Harold Brown, Granite City Park District superintendent.

The schedule includes complete shutdown of the rink tomorrow Christmas Eve and regular afternoon and evening skating sessions on Saturday and Sunday.

Skate school classes on Saturday, Dec. 25, and Saturday, Jan. 1 have been cancelled, Brown said.

Extra skating sessions are scheduled daily from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, Dec. 27-30, with general skating as usual, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. each evening.

Collide on State Street

Charged Over Conduct

William Gaddy, 21, of 1215 Meridian St., was arrested at 11:40 p.m. Monday at his home on a disorderly conduct charge.

3.—Uncertainty as to what the standards are.

Dealing with the objections in order, Blaser said:

—The state has already taken action against industrial polluters and some communities, and definitely will follow up on failure to comply with anti-pollution regulations.

—The Matteson case, already completed, established the precedent that cities cannot use as a "stock reason" the excuse that federal funds have not been delivered, when failure to comply is shown.

—By Jan. 31 at the latest, exact affluent standards will be finalized, so communities will know exactly what the requirements are.

Blaser stresses that while federal funds have not been forthcoming in many cases, as promised, the state has adequate funds available to pay the state's promised part of any approved project which qualifies for aid.

Originally, the federal government promised to pay 35% of sewage treatment plant construction costs, but failed to appropriate sufficient funds.

Later it upped the federal commitment to 50%, and again failed to cover the promise.

The state provides 25% of the cost if federal regulations and other requirements are met. And the state, with $200 million approved, will be able to meet all its obligations, Blaser said.

Also expected by the end of January are air and water quality standards with which waste regulations expected to be completed by next June.

Springfield — Don't ever tell the boys in the law enforcement department you're a fan of Walt Disney.

To tell Miller and his staff of conservation law enforcers, the only thing worse is to mention "Bambi," which strictly is a foul five-letter word in their office.

Not that the fellows are on a rampage. They love their wives and children, they smile at little old ladies, they pat dogs. They have nothing against dwarfs operating mines, or sleeping beauties or charming princesses.

It's just that their job traps them solidly between the long arm of conservation law and the tear-filled public eye, particularly where these dear little deer are concerned.

In Illinois, it is illegal to take or keep any one of a number of wild animals, among them the deer.

In Illinois, regularly, people find a fawn they are convinced was abandoned by its mother ("A deer NEVER abandons her fawn," Miller says) or a fawn whose mother has been killed, and they decide to adopt it.

Enter the Bambi Syndrome, which goes into the violent stage when the proud owner happily submits a picture to his local paper, showing the cute fawn, and being fondled by a charming tyke, often while a huge but apparently tenderhearted dog looks on.

Someone inevitably sends the picture to Miller's office and — quicker than you can say "Disneyland" — the long arm of the law becomes a fact of life.

Sometimes the civilized, coded product of hand-raising is a fawn that has survived in the wild and even in a protected environment it comes to a bad end. It does not matter how the fawn's popularity rating with the previous custodians any good, either.

It is possible to get a permit to keep deer—or the other restricted animals—as a breeder, but only if the permit is obtained before the animal is acquired, and only if the animal is acquired from a licensed legal breeder in Illinois or from outside the state.

Under no circumstances can the animal merely be taken from the wild, Miller said, and under no circumstances can a permit be issued to anyone who already has such an animal in his possession.

"We try to discourage people from keeping them at all," Miller said. "It just isn't a good idea. There's nothing cuter, for instance, than a spotted baby raccoon. But when he gets about a year old he gets vicious."

"If it's a female, she gets kind of skittish and bites people a lot. So here's someone with 30-35 pounds of raccoon they don't want running around the house, so they decide they'll take it out and turn it loose. All it does is get into trouble. It doesn't know how to forage, and it's just a nuisance."

The final word comes from one of Miller's aides.

"I wish people would read the last chapter of 'Bambi,' he says. "Don't think anybody ever reads that." He sounded sad, like someone who's just heard that Paul Bunyon's great blue ox had hoof and mouth disease.

Foreign Students Here Add Variety To Celebration of Holiday Season

No matter how students from foreign countries, attending Southern Illinois University-Southwestern celebrate the Christmas season in their native lands, it is the "season to be jolly."

Students represent 27 foreign countries at SIU-SW — all the way from Trinidad, Nicaragua and from Iran to Canada.

In less commercialized countries, such as Nigeria, there is joy in the simple pleasures of feasting and dancing. According to Lugard Osonbor, a sophomore at SIU-SW from the west region of Nigeria, the New Year's celebration there falls at the same time as the Christmas season.

The 2-day festival, called the "Ewe and Igwe" festival, begins before daylight on the first day. Tribesmen light torches and run through the forest to a large pit, where they hurl the torches around their heads and throw them into the pit. As the sticks fall into the pit, the tribesmen make resolutions for the new year.

According to legend, the giant of ancient times, "Ara-ram," made the large pit with his foot and then was buried underneath. The festival is the only time each year that tribesmen see the king's wife, who remains in the shelter of a palace for the rest of the year.

Live Christmas trees are unknown in the Philippines, sophomore Mary Stein reports. Those among the Roman Catholic majority who can afford to buy artificial trees, but they buy artificial trees, but some students meticulously clean and hang distinctive curtains as decorations.

regard of one large meal Christmas day. Filipinos host several large feasts before Christmas. On Christmas Day, children visit their friends and relatives; they "mend" (kiss) the hand of their adult host and are blessed.

Little children may be given 50 cents instead of gifts, while teenagers may get as much as $5.

The Christmas dessert Clifford Samaroo would enjoy in his native Republic of Trinidad and Tobago would include fresh apples and other fruits not native to his tropical island nation.

The main course would be less exotic: rice, curried chicken and "dhal puri" — a pastry made with ground peas.

Many people in Trinidad go carolling but others of Spanish descent have a "parang" instead. A "parang" is a festival which includes strutting with guitars, from house to house throughout the holiday season.

In Ceylon, according to Rex W. G. Fernando, graduate mathematics student here, the Christian minority celebrates Christmas in the same manner as in the West. The Buddhist majority celebrates no festivals at that time, because its lunar new year falls several months after ours. However, in the cities, non-Christians exchange gifts and observe the outward signs of Christmas.

Mohammed Kaskouli of Iran says that in his country, since Moslems follow the lunar year, Christmas is not celebrated at Christmas time. But the non-Christian people still put up lights and engage in many of the customs of the West.

Redmond Lynn Humphrey is from Managua, Nicaragua. He reports at least one similarity between Christmas at home and in America—"It's the more day for Santa Claus than Jesus."

Humphrey said that, although there is no snow in tropical Nicaragua, "We have seen American postcards showing snow on the trees. So, at home, we decorate ours with cotton."

John R. Mino, a graduate student from Ontario, Canada, says that Christmas in Canada has been heavily influenced by the American model. One thing distinguishes the Quad-City area from home for Mino, however. "At home, we normally have snow at Christmas time," he said.

Highlights of Year at SIU-SW Reviewed

Appointment of the first president, administrative reorganization and budget battles highlighted 1971 at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern.

Dr. John S. Rendleman, who had served as chancellor since 1968, was named president of the University Sept. 1, climaxing 20 years of service to the SIU system. The appointment was part of a year-long decentralization effort designed to give SIU-SW complete autonomy by Dec. 31.

Reorganization included appointment of three vice-presidents. Dr. Andrew J. Kochman was named vice-president and provost, Dr. B. D. Hudgens vice-president for business affairs and Dr. Ramon N. Williamson vice-president for student affairs.

Reorganization came amid bitter battles over university spending, a tuition increase, Granite City PRESS-RECORD Page 22 Thurs., Dec. 23, 1971 budget requests and criticism of President Rendleman by some state officials. In January the SIU Board of Trustees gave then Chancellor Rendleman a unanimous vote of confidence following criticism of his role as executor of the estate of former Secretary of State Paul Powell. Prior to the trustee meeting students had collected several thousand signatures on a petition supporting Rendleman. Deans and administrators had adopted a similar resolution of endorsement.

Tuition Increase
A 43% increase in tuition was adopted after the Illinois Board of Higher Education called on all state-supported universities to require state residents to pay one-third of the cost of their education. The increase was to take effect in September, but was deferred by the trustees for one quarter after President Nixon's wage-price freeze was announced.

Signs of impending operating budget cuts for the fiscal year beginning July 1 came early. The BHE recommended $30,516,963 for SIU-SW. In February the faculty was warned to expect a 5 to 10% budget reduction. The legislature and the governor finally agreed on an appropriation of $26,017,273.

Cuts were felt even before the fiscal year began. A University Senate committee assisted the administration in a review of priorities, to see where reductions could be made. Operating budgets were reduced about 10% across the board. Since personal service makes up 75% of the operating budget, it was necessary to reduce faculty, staff and civil service positions.

More than 100 faculty positions were cut, most of which were part-time call staff. Physical plant and civil service cuts totalled $1. A total of 107 courses were also cut from the curriculum.

Low Priority Programs
The BHE asked all state universities to list low priority programs amounting to 15% of the current operating budget which might be cut from budgets for next year. President Rendleman responded by asking university trustees to trim $5.7 million from the operating budget request. If additional cuts have to be made, he indicated he would reluctantly recommend curtailment of the new School of Dental Medicine.

Early in December the BHE cut SIU-SW's capital outlay request for next year by 85.5%, eliminating any possibility of relief from crowded classroom conditions. The university has the highest classroom space utilization rate of any state-supported university in Illinois. Trustees discarded plans for a fine arts building and a physical education building because they were too costly.

The only new building opened on campus was the Religious Center, privately financed. University participation in the Mississippi River Festival drew political fire from Rep. Philip Collins of Chicago, chairman of a special House subcommittee on higher education, who was quoted in Chicago papers as saying he was out to "put an end to the Festival." Collins called a hearing March 26 on the campus and asked key administrators to appear. Harold R. Fischer, chairman of the Board of Trustees, announced SIU-SW had contributed $23,630 toward Festival operations over a two-year period. The hearing demonstrated strong area support for the Festival. State Sen. Sam Vadalabene introduced legislation to create a Metro-East Exposition and Performing Arts Authority to erect a permanent facility on the SIU-SW campus for cultural and community events, such as MRF.

Erect Stage Shell
Trustees voted to build a $75,000 shell over the MRF stage, which is now used for other university purposes, but declined to underwrite any operating expenses. Despite the controversy, the 1971 Festival was held on the campus and drew a record-breaking crowd of 120,411, including Gov. and Mrs. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Despite budget problems, significant progress on academic programs was made. In May the American Dental Association granted "accreditation eligible" status to the school, after an on-site visit from the ADA's Council on Dental Education. Funds appropriated by the legislature for remodeling of facilities at the Alton Center for the dental school were released by Gov. Ogilvie in November.

The governor also freed funds to complete SIU-SW's purchase of the Alton Center from the Shortell Foundation, ending a lease-purchase agreement which dated back to 1957. A new master's degree program in city and regional planning and a bachelor of science degree in sanitation technology were approved by the BHE. The Board of Trustees approved plans for a master's degree in anthropology, and a bachelor of science degree in education with concentration in early childhood education. These two plans are awaiting BHE approval prior to implementation.

Master of Business
The first graduates of the master of business administration program offered at Millitary Airfield Command bases throughout the U. S. received degrees in October.

A three-year plan to encourage interest in the study and teaching of Asian studies began in August, bringing Asian experts to the campus for a series of lectures.

Area high school graduates and transfer students were recruited and screened for a new supplemental instructional program for minority and academically challenged students.

The Delinquency Study and Youth Development Center expanded its training program for personnel of correctional institutions and conducted a series of workshops through a grant from the Office of Education. A national symposium on alternatives to incarceration of youth was sponsored in Hot Springs, Ark.

The university began a study of reasons why ex-GIs returning from Vietnam were not taking advantage of educational opportunities with an experimental program conducted by the ex-GIs themselves.

Enrollment Shifts
The pattern of enrollment at SIU-SW shifted significantly in September, changing from an emphasis on freshman and sophomore years to the junior and senior levels. Total enrollment was down for the first time since the campus opened, with 12,856 registered for the fall quarter.

However, junior and senior enrollment was up 7.3% over 1970. University officials attributed the 6.5% total enrollment drop to the growth of area junior colleges and general economic conditions. A survey completed earlier in the year showed that 35% of all students withdrawing from SIU-SW do so because of financial reasons.

The university continued its involvement in metropolitan problems through research, academic and service programs.

R. Buckminster Fuller, internationally known designer and theoretician, unveiled a redevelopment plan for East St. Louis which included a massive dome to be built over the riverfront. To be closer to the proposed project, Fuller announced he would open an office at Edwardsville.

A year-long study of the level of carbon monoxide in man began in St. Louis in June, financed by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Workshop on drug use and abuse were offered throughout the metropolitan area.

Noise Pollution
Downtown St. Louis and portions of residential neighborhoods were found to be polluted by high noise levels. A study by a graduate student showed the noise level high enough to disturb sleep in homes within 700 feet of major highways.

The chemistry faculty outfitted a van as a traveling laboratory to help upgrade training of waste water treatment plant operators in Illinois and to conduct on-site environmental research.

The School of Dental Medicine received a contract to conduct research on the prevention of dental decay from the National Institute of Health.

A summer recreation program conducted for 250 East St. Louis youngsters was funded by the National Collegiate Athletic Association which gave the program a top rating after an on-site evaluation.

Total research grants from outside sources to SIU-SW was expected to reach $2.5 million, despite cutbacks by federal and private agencies throughout the nation.

In addition to the Mississippi River Festival, SIU-SW brought the Chicago Symphony Orchestra to the campus for two days of concerts and master classes in cooperation with the Illinois Arts Council. The SIU Concert Chorus made its first concert tour of Europe, singing 10 concerts. This trip was privately financed.

Faculty Recognition
Several faculty members were recognized for outstanding performance during the year. Gov. Ogilvie appointed Lucille McClelland, dean of the Nursing Division, to the State Comprehensive Health Planning Advisory Council.

Nicholas A. Masters, a professor of government and public affairs, was named staff director of the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations of the United States Congress and was granted a leave of absence to assume the post.

L. Donald Repovich, assistant professor of education, was named a fellow by the American Council on Education in its

$25 Million Salaries Paid State's Students

More than $25 million in salaries was paid during fiscal 1971 to 53,300 student workers at Illinois colleges and universities.

The information was contained in a survey compiled by an ad hoc committee of the Illinois Joint Council on Higher Education. Data were compiled from 109 responses to questionnaires sent to 140 junior colleges and universities in the state. Total enrollment of the schools which responded was 292,786.

Task-supported four-year colleges and universities accounted for almost 60% of the enrollment (51,246) and 70% of student employment (37,053). On a percentage basis, task-supported four-year institutions provided employment for 24.5% of their students, compared to 18.3% for private four-year institutions, 12.7% for private junior colleges, and 6.6% for public junior colleges.

Of the total number of dollars paid in salaries, public institutions accounted for $19,738,061 and private institutions for $5,662,439. Overall, $5 of every $6 came from institutional funds, with the other $1 coming from federal government.

Based on responses to questionnaires, the survey pointed out that task-supported four-year institutions not only provided employment for the greatest number of students but indicate the greatest need for additional student employees and funds to pay them, representing 77% of all additional student workers needed for total employment. The funds needed to employ the additional students is estimated conservatively at about $7.6 million.

St. Louis U. Offers Accelerated Program

A college graduate can now acquire a baccalaureate degree in nursing in only 12 months of study under a newly established accelerated program initiated by the St. Louis University School of Nursing and Allied Health Professions.

Since they have already had courses in the natural and social sciences and the humanities, the students can devote the entire year to specific nursing studies. Formerly this type of student would have had to spend another four years to attain the baccalaureate degree in nursing.

In announcing the new program, Sister Mary T. Noth, S. M., dean of the St. Louis University School of Nursing and Allied Health Professions, said, "It is believed to be the first School in the nation to establish such a program."

Airborne Clocks May Gain -- But Stewardesses Don't Age

Clocks moving around the world to the west will gain time, even if the clocks are mounted on the backs of turtles, according to professor Joseph C. Hafele of the Washington University physics department.

Hafele's late-December remarks were made to the Physics Colloquium at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern. He presented an elementary review of the theory and preliminary results of his recent around-the-world clock experiment on an airplane to prove Einstein's Theory concerning time.

The theory briefly states that moving clocks will run slower or faster than a clock at rest. There are still many people who doubt the results or contend that the effect is too small to bother with, Hafele said. But he believes his experiment proves that the results are significant and his equipment was accurate.

A St. Louis watchmaker offered to ensure the accuracy of Hafele's clocks, since watches are available that lose only one second a month. Hafele declined the offer, because the cesium beam clocks used in his experiments would lose "maybe one second in a million years," he said.

A popular concern about Einstein's Time Theory is the "twin paradox" which contends that if one twin traveled in space near the speed of light, he would be younger on returning to earth because time would have stood still.

Hafele says the effect is not known, but he is sure that stewardesses on flights going east (clocks lose time traveling in that direction) will not be younger than the stewardesses flying west.

Dear Nana-Becoming Senior Citizen Can Be a Joyful Time; Always Plenty to Do

By JACKIE STEFANICH
Copley News Service

Dear Nana:

Well, I'm delighted to be the first 11:50 on your birthday list. I think this is a very fine way of doing your "thing" for the senior citizens.

And if all the able-bodied would do just something, anything, in their own way, this would be a better world.

My little "thing" is to fix a dinner after our dinner meal, freeze it and take it to someone sick or alone. It's a banquet to them when they don't have to cook it.

Nana, the enclosed article on the "Miss America Pageant" was a riot. These young ones, even though they're senior citizens, have a circus at the Riverside (Calif.) Senior Citizen Center. They have a kitchen band, "The Belles and Beau," and entertain all over the county.

Although I'm on my way to becoming a senior citizen, I've never been busier in my life. Friends chide me about not working anymore, and Nana, I work harder than when I really worked out. But there are so many worthwhile things to be done and when we grow older we realize just how much the little things mean to so many.

I've had a simple and good life, married 37 years, and we have one daughter and three grandsons.

I'm looking forward to my retirement years when I will be able to work on my hobby: photography, ceramics, stamp and coin collections for my grandchildren. And then, if I'm in good health, to visit the sick and elderly. Never could understand people saying, "I have nothing to do."

So, one scorpion to another, I'd enjoy hearing about your likes and hobbies.

P. S. I'm 5 feet 8 and skinny. Dear Scorpions:

It's not often that I receive a letter from one who's so lovely and gives so much of herself to others.

Therefore, I hope you'll forgive me for printing your exciting letter in my column. And I'm sure your letter will be a wonderful inspiration to others who are approaching the senior citizen era.

Becoming a senior citizen certainly isn't as horrible as some people think it is. And it can be a joyful time in life. However, I'm sure it's true that we get out of life just what we want to put into it.

Your senior citizen center "Miss America Pageant" sounds very interesting and exciting. And if other senior citizen centers are interested in a similar project, I'm sure the Riverside Senior Citizen Center would be glad to advise them further on this activity.

Well, I guess it's true all Scorpions are alike as I'm 5 feet 8½ and slender. And I must say that our outlook on life is certainly similar, as I've never been busier myself than since I started my column.

However, I'm one daughter ahead of you and three grandchildren, two girls and one boy. Although I don't have time to work on hobbies I enjoy, I do hope to get to them later in life.

Like yourself, I can't understand those people who say they are bored and have nothing to do. I suspect they enjoy this frame of mind or they'd change it. Don't you agree?

As one Scorpion to another, it's been interesting to compare personalities and I hope to hear more about your exciting life.

Dear Nana:

Just received your letter and it was so kind of you to send me the instructions for your great grand project.

Although I think I can get most of the materials for the greeting cards here locally, we don't have any Japanese stores in this part of the state.

Can you tell me where I can get the rice paper and other Japanese supplies mentioned in your instructions? And if possible, I'd like to correspond with a lady who does all these kinds of hobbies. Maybe you could send her my address.

I enjoy doing any type of creative handwork. But there just aren't many hobby stores or anyone to give instructions on these projects in our area.

I'd certainly appreciate any advice you can give me on the above.

Mrs. J. W. S.

If you'll send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope I'll be glad to send you the instructions for all the other hobby projects I have; also, the name and address of where you can send for the Japanese supplies needed for the greeting card project.

Instead of corresponding with someone for hobby ideas, may I suggest that you subscribe to the Patch-Or-Fun magazine? I'm sure this interesting hobby magazine will give you many projects to keep you busy for some time.

Questions on problems of the elderly may be sent to Copley News Service, P. O. Box 190, San Diego, Calif. 92112.

DECEMBER BRIDE, Mrs. Gilbert D. Ellis, the former Miss Diane Meredith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Meredith, 2229 Cardinal Ave., whose wedding took place at Bethesda Baptist Church.

Miss Diane Meredith, Gilbert Ellis Are Wed

Miss Diane Meredith, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Meredith, 2229 Cardinal Ave., became the bride of Gilbert D. Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert R. Ellis Jr., 721 Twenty-sixth Place, at 7 o'clock in the evening on Dec. 18.

The Rev. Merdell McDaniel officiated at a double ring ceremony at the Bethesda Baptist Church, 3035 Nameoki Drive.

Mrs. Robert Grayson accompanied Mrs. Bill Rush, sister, as she sang, "Whither Thou Goest," "A Time For Us" and the "Wedding Prayer."

The bride was lovely in a white organza gown designed with a high collar and long full sleeves. A red rose eiffel formed the full train, trimmed with large daisies, and daisy motifs were repeated on the collar and cuffs of the gown.

A cathedral veil of illusion was secured with a cluster of lilies and pearls, and she carried a cascade of white carnations arranged with Christmas holly and red berries tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Terry Burton was matron of honor and Miss Patricia H. Ferguson, Mo., served as bridesmaid.

Randy and Gary Ellis served as best man and groomsmen, respectively, for their brother, Mike Meredith, the bride's brother and Dale Gibbs, a cousin of the bride, seated guests as they arrived at the church.

Margaret Meredith, flower girl and Richard Meredith, ring bearer, also sister and brother of the bride.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid were gownned alike in floor length dresses of ruffled chiffon trimmed with white Venise lace. Fashioned with a fitted bodice, the high neckline was edged in white lace and the long tapered sleeves ended in points at the wrists.

Matching velvet hats with bouffant veiling were worn as headpieces and each carried a white muff centered with Christmas holly.

An evening reception was held in the church fellowship hall with Miss Patty Ellis in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Meredith chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of royal blue velvet with white accessories. The groom's mosh-er was attired in a pale pink dress designed in an Empire style and complemented with black accessories. Both mothers were holly corsages.

A rehearsal supper was given at the Spotlight Restaurant in East St. Louis by the groom's parents.

The bride is employed at the Federal Building, St. Louis. She is a 1970 graduate of Granite City High School.

Mr. Ellis, who is enrolled at Bailey Technical School, also is employed at Charles S. Lewis Inc. He is a 1968 graduate of Granite City High School.

After a wedding trip to Tampa in the Ozarks, the newly married couple will make their home in Granite City.
